Food JAG

Food refusal is a big contributor to "poor nutrition"

Whether it is a dislike of certain colors or textures, some of us are just picky.

When u refuse to eat a variety of foods and limits self to only one food or food group, the National Institutes of Health refers to this as a "Food Jag"

Making a rule that u must at least taste each food on the plate is a good way to work around this.

Food habits will change with time and, eventually, you will begin to try other foods.

The slide also features an illustration of a family of four sitting at a dining table with a red tablecloth, eating a meal. Above the illustration is a photo of a young boy looking thoughtful while eating. To the right of the slide, a grid of video feeds shows several participants, including Preetha Kiran, Siddhi Panchawa, Aryan Gatade, Mridul Tiwari, Aneri Divedi, Jaivardhan Singh, Anika Narkar, Yashika Malik, Sagarika Gupta, and Ujala Singh. TOK-KNOWLEDGE & THE KNOWER

by Vedant Patil

As individuals, we know very little in relation to all the Knowledge surrounding us. We gather knowledge through various ways of knowing- sense perception, reason, language, memory, intuition, faith, imagination and emotion and knowledge has been known to have passed down from generation to generation. Nearly everything around us is a result of human desire, inventions and discoveries that were born out of curiosity and pursuit for new Knowledge.

HOW DO WE KNOW?

We have gained knowledge through generations. The methods we employ to gather knowledge in different subject areas construct our knowledge.

How Do We Know the Earth is 4.6 Billion Years Old?

How Do We Know the sky is blue?

Was the Big Bang Just an accident?

How do we know that Water is 2 parts Hydrogen and 1 part Oxygen?

Is there a God?

COMMUNITIES OF KNOWERS

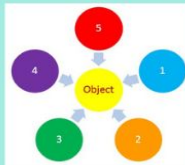

Some areas of knowledge are limited to certain communities and this knowledge is often forbidden to be given to outsiders

Each individual is in a community, your family can be classified as a community, your religious tribe, the area you live in. Knowledge that is restricted to communities of Knowers has the potential to die out eventually!!

WHAT SHAPES OUR PERSPECTIVES?

You construct your perception. You construct it based on how you choose to see the world. That construction is influenced by several factors. Influences on perception include past experiences, education, values, culture, preconceived notions, and present circumstances.

KNOWLEDGE AS A MAP

Knowledge can be seen as a kind of a map, a map is used to help navigate towards a particular destination, knowledge can also be considered as a kind of map that will help you reach your destination, as long as you are willing to work hard for it.

CONNECTIONS TO THE IB LEARNER PROFILE

TOK makes students avid inquirers. They try and find out how knowledge is constructed by various methods.

TOK students strive to be knowledgeable about the nature of knowledge. This means becoming knowledgeable about the methods of inquiry of a variety of subject areas, from a number of perspectives.

TOK students are required to be excellent communicators in order to demonstrate their knowledge.

TOK students need to be open minded about the knowledge they receive.

TOK students need to have a balanced approach towards knowledge. They need to understand that there are several perspectives to one piece of knowledge and that they to understand and respect these perspectives.

In the words of Mark Twain, 'Kindness is a language which a deaf can hear and the blind can see'. On 9th September the students of CP III expressed the feelings of Kindness and Gratitude through their class assembly. At SMSISJC, we believe in inculcating these habits from a young age. Our students showcased their views on caring for animals and nature around us, causes and effects of pollution and practicing self kindness. They expressed their immense gratitude to their teachers and grandparents who are their role models. Indeed, a little act of kindness and gratitude can work wonders !!

On the 11th of October, the IBDP students of Bunts Sangha's S.M. Shetty International School celebrated International Girl Child Day. The boys outlined important social issues regarding girls and women in Indian society such as harassment, gender inequality, sexual assault, the gender ratio and the lack of females in the education system and the workforce.

The show ended with a call to make a change in our personal thought, and it evoked many emotional responses from the girls for whom the program was prepared for, and the teachers as well.
